126004	Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	I will make a goal to write more regularly.	The narrative medicine practice time.		I would love to see another narrative medicine session
126005	Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Somewhat Agree	Am going to try putting the social history near the beginning of my letters I will also try to use 10 minutes at a time to reflect and write.			Yes, please more of that!!
126006	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Start all my consult letters with the social history. I really find this a very meaningful way to work with my patient and communicate with my colleagues who have referred their patients to me. It will reinforce for me to keep the social history in these letters, even though they take more time to write. The EMR's don't encourage it. The referrals get are so not a creative medicine.	It has not taken the time to write for myself as in narrative medicine. This was a wonderful way to start the evening tonight. I hope that there will be more opportunities to do the same. In the meantime, I'll start writing for myself more.		Further guidance in narrative writing.
126007	Strongly Agree	N/A	Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	will do reflective writing on weekly basis to enrich my practice- encourage patients to participate in writing, particularly in palliative care cases.	fantastic facilitator that were supportive, non intimidating, welcoming
126008	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Somewhat Agree	Consider the writing aspect of my work part of the therapeutic process, instead of a chore/booring paperwork.	The chance to write something, to try it out! Trying it out reminds me that it is something to do, even in little starts.	Oh, the downward doom gloom... but this is at something that anyone can do anything about, this is life during COVID. So much better to have the chance to connect.	I love this area of the art of medicine- storytelling, writing, creativity, art, music, to therapeutic and to share with colleagues is invaluable. More sessions like this please. (Also laughter and humor as medicine would be an incredible topic for a session.	Thank you- so wonderful!
126009	Strongly Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	I will try to share more of patients narrative with them. Thoroughly enjoyed the course. Thank you	the people	could do more	Drives "physician" expectations
126010		Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	Somewhat Agree	Strongly Agree	Somewhat Agree	I will use the idea of narrative care strongly in taking a patient history.	The writing exercises really drew out unexpected details, and allowed for a delightful thought process to occur.	the initial didactic slides without any creative aspect to them- I would love to be drawn in by relevant quotes, examples of famous narrative medical works, etc.	Art in medicine- how about a drawing/painting workshop? Maybe post-covid. These are some fantastic art teachers in Victoria through Vancouver Island school of art who could facilitate.	Wow- thank u.
126011	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	I will be more inclined to suggest journaling and creative writing as a therapeutic tool. I will also use this as an exercise for myself.	The writing exercises that we did. The fact that we had the chance to do some writing in the meeting was very effective and I realized how much I enjoyed this.		I would be great to have a follow up to this in a similar format. It would also be great for those of us who expressed an interest to be able to get together virtually to do more writing.	as above
126012	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Somewhat Agree	I hope I will incorporate more writing practice. I will approach my palliative care team to see if this may be of interest to them as well.	Actual practice with the writing, starting with an easier writing prompt and then leading to something with more depth.		Narrative Medicine and Palliative Care incorporating patient stories into a clinical practice. More writing practice/prompts. I LOVED this session. Could there be further incorporation of the humanities. Perhaps a focus on poetry, or art. So many possibilities!
126013	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Start writing...poetry...collect stories.	The writing exercises	I am guilty...hesitant at participation	This is great!	A number of people express interest in writing group. Extend to all members??
126014	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Encourage patient to write to find meaning/remember the catharsis felt to motivate me to keep writing	The actual exercises carved out of busy schedules	general discussion at the end	Life stories in palliative care
126015	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	More creative writing in off work time	the first exercise		more similar	really appreciated the opportunity
126016	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	I loved the writing exercises and suggestions for more.			I am interested in a follow up session	It was different and lovely. Thank you
126017	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	Somewhat Agree	Not currently in clinical practice.	The writing portion. I am very good at putting off the actual writing of my ideas.		Many of the participants expressed interest in forming a writing group. It won't clear how we might be able to contact each other again.	narrative medicine as caters for practitioners/doctors.	Thank you, and, if possible, please facilitate those interested in continuing contacting each other.
126018	Strongly Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Agree	Agree	Strongly Agree	I will allow me a little space to value a narrative and put it in context instead of being stressed or impatient	The writing exercises were nicely timed and easy to understand		Down during is a bit more rocky than in person	How to make a patient narrative into a story for them, for me, and how to obtain consent from patients to share it.
126019	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	Strongly Agree	I will give more thought to the importance of narrative in health care interactions.	The writing exercises were interesting, and it was helpful to have time for discussion.		I am interested in many programs related to narrative medicine, particularly regarding close reading.
